Reflection

Have you fallen in love? The trouble about falling in love is that you can fall out of love. You can fall out of love with the same person hundreds of times, but you cannot fall out of commitment. My friend in Portugal said to me, 'I married my wife, Maria, because I loved her. Now I love my wife, Maria, because I married her.' He was spot on. Love is not a feeling. Love is an action. It is something you do. I can bite my tongue and hold my fire when I am upset with my spouse. Love is patient and kind; love is never jealous; love is not boastful or conceited, it is never rude. Love in marriage is an unconditional commitment to an imperfect human being. It is not an involvement. Involvement and commitment are two different things. Nothing shapes life more than the commitments we make. Our commitments make us or break us but either way they define us. We become our commitments. Many people are afraid to commit to anything that has to do with the sublime or the transcendent. (Vincent Travers OP)
